Thousands Battle Snow in Belgrade at King's Funeral

Yugo-Slavs Endure Intense Cold to See Royal Procession

WAR THREAT LURKS

France Sends Laval to Italy, in Place of Murdered Barthou

BELGRADE, Yugo-Slavia — (P) — Nights without shelter or sleep in bitterly cold weather faced hundreds of thousands pouring into Belgrade Wednesday to attend funeral ceremonies for King Alexander.

Heavy snow storms, accompanied by high winds, are sweeping toward the capital. The city is already crowded, 50 special trains arriving daily to bring people to the funeral.

France Worried

PARIS, France — (P) — France was striving desperately Tuesday night to keep the Marseille murders from becoming another Sarajevo as police at Melun tore from Mio Kraj, third terrorist suspect, an admission that he was sent to Marseille to kill King Alexander of Yugo-Slavia.

The Surete Nationale announced that Kraj, alias Sylvester Chalmé of Melun, who was known to his Yugoslav fellows as "Scarface" and "The Strong," confessed at Melun that he was sent to Marseille with Vladimir Georgievitch Tschernomirsky, alias Petrus Kalemén, for the assassination of Alexander.

He told The Associated Press, in broken German: "I am a Croat. What I did and what I wanted to do were for Croatian liberty."

(The province of Croatia in Yugo-Slavia long has been stirred by agitation for its autonomy or independence of the Belgrade government.)

Afraid of Kalemén

To the authorities, too, he described himself as a "Croat patriot." He told authorities the thought of shooting into the crowd made him quail and so he fled the scene of the assassination for fear Walemen would shoot him down for his destiny.

His confession named Egon Kvaternik, or Kramer, as the "delegate" for Dr. Ante Pavelich, chief of the revolutionary society, and the man who ordered him to Marseille.

(Ivan Rajitch and Zvonimir Prospechil, two other confessed members of the band who are held at Anancy, identified Kvaternik variously as "the delegate" and "the doctor.")

"I regret nothing," Kraj was reported to have told police.

A dispatch from Sofia, Bulgaria, said the Marseille assassin had been identified as Vlado Gueorgiev (Georgiev), Macedonian revolutionist.

Political implications of the tragedy at Marseille concerned Paris almost as much as the hunt for the assassin band as French diplomacy strove to avert an increase of friction between Italy and Yugo-Slavia.

Laval Plans Trip to Rome

Frightened lest declarations published in the press that Italian money helped support Balkan terrorist groups might stir new hatred, thus threatening European peace, the French were hastening preparations for the visit to Rome of Pierre Laval, new foreign minister.

It was Louis Barthou, murdered beside Alexander at Marseille, who conceived the hope for Indo-French understanding and consequently for friendship between Italy and France's ally, Yugo-Slavia, and it was in pursuance of that hope that he invited Alexander to France.

Laval will carry on in Barthou's stead. A quarter close to the government said:

"King Alexander and Barthou are dead but the policy of which they were the driving forces still exists. It must continue with untiring energy."

This authority said Edouard Benes, prime minister of Czechoslovakia and guiding spirit of the Little Entente, probably would visit Rome after Laval "in order to show everyone that sincere co-operation among France, Italy and the Little Entente is an essential factor for the maintenance of peace."

Killed Bulgarians

Kalemén's identification as Vladimir Georgievitch Tschernomirsky, who had been convicted of two assassinations in Bulgaria in 1925, was made through finger prints. He was under sentence of death, but was liberated through an amnesty in 1932 and fled Bulgaria.

He was convicted of assassinating the Bulgarian deputy, Dimo Hadji Dimoff and another man named Naeum Tomalevsky, police said, adding that he joined the Croat terrorists organization headed by Pavelich in 1932.

Prof. the man held at Melun, was quoted as saying Kvaternik went with him and the assassin to near Marseille, but left the morning Alexander arrived after shaking hands with them and telling them:

"I am going away. You know the king is arriving. You also know what you must do—go to Marseille and fire on the king."

Hauptmann Loses Extradition Fight

New York Rules Against Him on Habeas Corpus Plea

NEW YORK — (P) — Supreme Court Justice Ernest L. Hammond Tuesday night denied the application of Bruno Richard Hauptmann for a writ of habeas corpus against his extradition to New Jersey to face a charge of murdering the baby son of Col. Charles A. Lindbergh.

Attorney General David T. Wilentz announced that he was preparing for immediate trial of Hauptmann on the murder charge at Flemington, N. J., and probably would be ready to begin it within two weeks.

The Jersey attorney general added that the prosecution would not attempt to rush the defense.

"It may be three or four weeks after Hauptmann is brought to New Jersey," he said, "before the trial will start."

Millard Whitely, a Jersey farmer and lumberman, tapped Hauptmann on the shoulder in court Tuesday and identified him as the "stranger" he saw on two occasions near the Hopeville home of Colonel Lindbergh in the two weeks before the baby was abducted and slain.

With this dramatic identification, the attorney general rested his demand for the extradition.

Defense Attorney James M. Pawcett countered the Whitely identification with the testimony of three neighbors, one of them a cousin of the farmer, who said his reputation for veracity is bad.

The ransom notes—which New Jersey contends prove Hauptmann was the abductor-murderer of Baby Lindbergh—were offered in evidence after Albert O. Osborn, noted handwriting expert, declared his belief they were written by Hauptmann.

FLAPPER FANNY SAYS

Sheriff's Pledge on Fees Is Thrown Out by Judge Bush

Circuit Court Holds 1932 Taxpayers' Contract Is Illegal

COUNTY IN APPEAL

County Judge Stephens, Reversed, Takes Case to Supreme Court

Although testimony was undisputed that Sheriff John L. Wilson signed an agreement with the Hempstead County Taxpayers' association during the 1932 campaign to reduce the sheriff's and jailer's fees, Circuit Judge Dexter Bush ruled such agreements illegal and void in a circuit hearing at Washington late Tuesday and ordered the county clerk to issue warrants for the full statutory value.

Hempstead county appealed the case to the supreme court.

The effect of Judge Bush's decision was to reverse the decision of County Judge H. M. Stephens, from whose court Sheriff Wilson had taken an appeal, asserting that the taxpayers' association agreement was illegal and he was entitled to the full statutory rate.

The case was styled: E. L. Rider, jailer, and John L. Wilson, sheriff, versus Hempstead county. It had been stipulated in the agreement between Sheriff Wilson and the taxpayers' league that the price per day for feeding prisoners at the county jail should be 75 cents each instead of the statutory rate of $1; and that the sheriff's office would receive fees under the 1932 law, somewhat lower than the latest statute.

In Hempstead civil court a jury returned a verdict of $5,000 in the case of Joe Thompson, suing Hope Basket company for $30,000 damages as a result of lightning injuries. Notice of appeal was filed by the company.

Wood Fuel Okehed for Light Plant

Board Puts Cost Limit at $25,000—Council Delays Final Action

The Board of Public Affairs Tuesday night filed a report with the city council recommending that wood be burned in the city-owned water and light plant instead of gas, provided that the total cost shall not exceed $25,000 per year.

No action, however, was taken on the proposal, due to the absence of George Sandefur manager of the plant, who was unable to be present because of illness.

The report filed by Lloyd Spencer, C. C. Spragins, H. C. Stuart and M. M. Smyth, showed that the cost of wood delivered to the boiler room would run approximately $19,000 per year, with an additional cost of $5,000 to maintain one gas boiler, bringing the total cost to $24,000 per year.

The report also showed that the cost of gas used from October 1, 1933 to October 1 of this year was $24,529, or $471 cheaper than the wood proposal.

The Board of Public Affairs recommended the change "on account of the benefits that will accrue to the community on account of using wood in place of gas," the report said.

Further action is expected to be taken at the next meeting of the council.

Housing Program Relief Drive Aim

Roosevelt Sees It as Big Part of Next Public Works Activity

WASHINGTON — (P) — President Roosevelt said Wednesday his recommendation to the next congress would include plans for a big increase in housing projects in connection with relief work.

The president said the housing program undoubtedly would fit in with the new public works program.

The president also told of a conference he had Tuesday with Relief Administrator Hopkins and two of his assistants, who described to small farm relief projects in West Virginia and Arkansas.

In Arkansas, the president said, persons now on relief were being put on small farms costing approximately $1,500.

Mrs. Stoll Lived Always on Alert

Guarded From Childhood as Heir of 10-Million Estate

LOUISVILLE, Ky. — (P) — Alice Stoll was elaborately guarded from early childhood against kidnappers. Fear of them was the one thing that kept her mother from complete enjoyment of the children.

After marriage Alice continued the precautions. She practiced pistol shooting. She kept a vicious dog.

She became the victim of one of nation's most sensational kidnappings. Mrs. and William Shulleross, special members of one of Kentucky's oldest and wealthiest families always realized their immense fortune might be a magnet to draw ill to them in that way. It has been estimated as high as $10,000,000.

Friends of the family recalled that the vigilance began when Alice was born at the fortress-like home of her grandfather, James Brockbridge Speed, in Louisville. The garden where the baby had her airings was surrounded by a high spiked fence. She was watched by an unflinching nurse. A passerby could not even see the child at play.

After Alice was old enough to drive her own car, her father made her promise to be home by 4 every afternoon.

So carefully shielded was the girl that she never had the large number of friends that most girls have. Only a selected few knew her intimately. People of her own walk of life rarely came into her circle of acquaintances. She was of a cool, cautious and observing nature. She seemed to learn to watch things closely.

Warneke to Help Rowe Homecoming

2 Arkansas Major League Stars at El Dorado Tuesday, Oct. 23

Next Tuesday, October 23, will be a holiday in El Dorado when Union County will close shop to honor Schoobey Rowe, the now famous Detroit Tiger hurler, who pitched himself into baseball's hall of fame during the season recently closed.

Two outstanding features have been arranged for the day, a gala parade at noon, headed by a school band of 250 pieces. Then at 2:30 o'clock the baseball game at Rowland Field when Lynwood (Schoobey) Rowe will be pitted against Len Warneke, star hurler of the Chicago Cubs. Other players who will appear in the lineup are Bill Didek, catcher for the New York Yankees; Dibs Williams, short stop for the Philadelphia Athletics; Bing Hale, second baseman for the Cleveland Indians; Travis Jackson, short stop and captain of New York Giants; Arkie Vaughan, short stop for the Pittsburgh Pirates and perhaps several others. The El Dorado team will be headed by George Harper, manager of the El Dorado Dixie League Team. Stars of the league will appear with him.

Governor Fretwell and several other high state officials have been invited and are expected.

Schools of the city will adjourn classes at noon while the students join in the parade. The high school band will play during the baseball game. This band has made up of more than 100 musicians in the El Dorado schools, while another hundred or more from Camden, Magnolia, Stamps, Smackover, Strong, Hartig, and other places will join. It will be one of the biggest bands of high school musicians ever assembled in the state of Arkansas.

Rowland Field, El Dorado's League baseball park, is expected to be overflowing for the game. All box seats have been sold and many of the reserved seats. Bleachers are being erected and plans are being made, if necessary, to care for 10,000 fans.

Rowe day in El Dorado has been set aside to honor the 22-year-old School-

Mrs. Stoll Found Safe; Bronx Young Man Is Kidnaped

Wealthy Kentucky Woman Released—Wife of Captor Is Arrested

KIDNAPER IS CRAZY

Abductor Has Been Under Asylum's Care in Past Years

By the Associated Press

As one kidnapping case was solved, a new one dropped into the lap of the law Wednesday.

Mrs. Alice Stoll, abducted a week ago for $50,000 ransom and held prisoner in an Indianapolis apartment, was released Tuesday night. The man named as her kidnaper, T. L. Robinson, Jr., is being hunted. His wife, said to have acted as guard for Mrs. Stoll, is being held.

The new kidnapping case is in the Bronx, New York, where Lewis Esposito, 23-year-old son of a prosperous junk dealer, has been missing since Monday. Telephoned demands of his abductors call for $20,000 ransom.

Mrs. Stoll Rescued

LOUISVILLE, Ky. — (P) — Mrs. Alice Speed Stoll, kidnap victim of a former insane asylum inmate, was rescued safe and well to her family Tuesday night.

Department of Justice agents found the young wife of Berry V. Stoll, wealthy oil man, at Scottsburg, Ind., and hurried her back to Louisville.

Thomas H. Robinson, Jr., 27, of Nashville, Tenn., was named by justice agents as the kidnaper. He had been sought for questioning in a sensational case since Stoll found his wife gone and a $50,000 ransom note in an upstairs room.

Mrs. Stoll was brutally treated 37 times, but was described as in a fairly good condition. She was put to bed at once under a physician's care.

Word of her return brought 300 joyous Kentuckians to the house.

Robinson's wife was taken in custody and along with her and Mrs. Stoll on the hurried return to Louisville were the Rev. E. Arnold Clegg, pastor of Capital Methodist Episcopal church, Indianapolis, Ind., and his wife. The Department of Justice in Washington announced the Rev. and Mrs. Clegg were not involved in the case.

Call for Ransom

The lead that enabled federal agents to rescue the daughter of one of Kentucky's proudest and wealthiest families came when Mrs. Robinson called for the $50,000 ransom package in Nashville. It had been shipped there last Friday by railway express according to directions in the original ransom note.

Mrs. Robinson was trailed to Terre Haute, Ind., there the agents tried a ruse to get the woman into a taxi cab driven by a disguised federal agent. The trick failed and she took another cab.

The agents trailed along behind, following the car to Indianapolis and to the home of the Cleggs. Late Tuesday afternoon a large machine containing Mrs. Stoll drove away from the Clegg home. At Scottsburg, Ind., the agents overtook it and rescued the woman.

They had sent hurried word to Louisville and other agents were on their way at full speed by motor to intercept the machine but arrived after the men trailing the car had overtaken it and rescued Mrs. Stoll.

Pastor Talks

The Rev. Mr. Clegg, whose wife is a cousin of Berry V. Stoll, gave his version of how Mrs. Stoll happened to be in his hands.

Talking with reporters in Jeffersonville, Ind., across the Ohio river, he said that at 3 this afternoon Mrs. Stoll came to his house in Indianapolis with Mrs. Thomas Robinson, Jr., now being held in connection with the case. They were greeted by Mrs. Clegg.

Immediately after entrance Mrs. Robinson asked to use the telephone. She called the Stoll residence here and asked if the "way had been cleared."

After this call the Rev. Mr. Clegg, who had been out, came home.

He was asked to drive the two visitors to Louisville.

He agreed and a start was made.

When the party got to Scottsburg, Ind., they were overhauled by a car containing federal agents under the leadership of Melvin H. Purvis of the Chicago office of the Department of Justice.

The Cleggs were released and planned to spend the night with relatives in Jeffersonville.

Once in Asylum

NASHVILLE, Tenn. — (P) — Records of the State Department of Institutions show that Thomas H. Robinson, Jr., 27, has been an inmate of state hospitals for the insane. It is set out that he attended college for two years.

Robinson was placed in the Central State hospital here following a plea of

Threat Upon Ford Leads to Arrest

U. S. Agents Seize Man Who Demanded $5,000 From Edsel

DETROIT, Mich. — (P) — A threat to kill Edsel Ford unless he paid $5,000 was revealed by Department of Justice agents here Wednesday with the arrest and purported confession of a man who gave the name of Edward Lickwala.

The agents said Lickwala, 20, wrote a note to Ford demanding payment of $5,000 and directed the place to put the money.

The agents said a dummy package was prepared and left at the designated place. They said Mrs. Claude Landerville, who lives at the address where the money was left, picked up the package and later Lickwala was arrested.

Lickwala was arrested Tuesday night, but the news was kept secret until Wednesday.

1/2 Million Cards for Registration

Must Be Filled Out and Returned in First State Baby Census

LITTLE ROCK — (P) — Arkansas postmasters are distributing nearly a half million cards to parents in Arkansas for the first state "Register Your Baby" campaign now being conducted by the Federal Bureau of the Census, the Bureau of Vital Statistics of the State Department of Health and the Arkansas Emergency Relief Administration.

The baby census cards, left Washington last Friday and arrived in the state Monday, the postmasters immediately began distribution, because they are most anxious that the future leading citizens of the state receive all the benefits of their first citizenship papers.

The baby census cards, asking information on babies born in Arkansas homes in the past twelve months, are to be mailed, postage free, to the census bureau in Washington.

The cards will then be returned to Little Rock, where they will be checked against the present vital statistics records. It is the desire of Dr. W. B. Grayson, state health officer, that every baby born in Arkansas in the past year receive proper registration from the state and federal agencies. All that the parents have to do is to fill in the card and drop it in the nearest mailbox, without postage. Uncle Sam will do the rest.

Parents owe it to their children to be sure that they are properly registered. A birth certificate is vitally important in establishing the legitimacy of heirs, to prove the claims of widows and orphans, to determine the liability of parents for the debts of a minor, to settle insurance policy claims, to obtain passports and claim

El Dorado has scored 50 points on the opponent's 28 while winning one game, tying one and losing three. Hope has rolled up 91 to the opposition's 45, breaking even in four contests. After smashing Hamburg 71-0 and then beating Camden for the first time in nine years, the Bobcats struck Fordyce and fell 13-6, then lost to the Trojans 32-0. Hot Springs thus far appears to be the 1934 state champion, although yet to play the heaviest part of its schedule.

Coalinite, a product of lignite brown coal, may supplant the world-famous bakelite industry, according to experiments at Kaiser Wilhelm Institute for Coal Research. It is claimed that the new product is ideally suited for making battery boxes and electric switch plates.

Municipal Court Jury Fixes $7.50 Penalty in Fight

Father Who "Snatched" Child Tried on Simple Assault Charge

HUSBAND'S STORY

Californian Denies Kicking Wife—Grabbed Baby on Mere Impulse

G. E. Walters, Los Angeles advertising man, whose efforts to kidnap his 2-year-old son turned an 18-mile Sunshine Special journey into a slapstick drama last Friday night, was convicted by a municipal court jury Wednesday morning of simple assault and fined $7.50 and costs.

The kidnap charges were dismissed on motion of Deputy Prosecuting Attorney Pat Casey on the grounds that it was Walters' own son that figured in the case.

Big Crowd Attends

Although the fine was small, a large crowd was present and listened intently as the estranged husband dramatically unfolded the case from the witness stand.

"As the train pulled up to the Hope station I had my baby in my arms. I love him more than anything. As the train pulled away I said:

"Kiss me honey, I'm going now and won't be back for a long time. He gave me a big hug and a kiss. On the spur of the moment I ran, and climbed aboard the train.

"I wouldn't kidnap him for a thousand dollars—but that natural impulse and sensation from kissing your baby goodbye is liable to make a person do anything," Walters said with a trace of a tear in his eyes, and with his voice rising and falling.

Walters denied that he kicked or slapped his wife when she was attempting to board the train. He also denied that he fought with his wife on the inside of the train before it was flagged at Prescott where Sheriff Arlice Pittman went aboard and took him in custody.

Mrs. Walters testified from the stand that he kicked her when she attempted to board the train and also slapped her when the two argued inside the pullman car.

Wife Has Witnesses

Oral Reeves and E. L. Neal supported Mrs. Walters' theory of what occurred at the Hope depot, both telling of seeing Walters kick and strike at his wife to prevent her from boarding the train.

There was much wrangling between the defendant's attorney, Luke Monroe, and Deputy Prosecuting Attorney Pat Casey and W. S. Atkins who assisted Mr. Casey.

Judge W. K. Lemley several times interrupted to bring order to the courtroom, and to prevent attorneys from bringing out unnecessary circumstances surrounding the case.

The jury was empaneled on E. G. Coop, Speedy Hutson, Luther Garner, E. B. Moses, Bishop Rhoades, Red Kennedy, R. L. Gosnell and Frank Russell.

Body of Hope Boy of 17 Expected to Arrive Home Thursday

Wilton Barnes, 17, of Hope, died early Wednesday at the home of a sister in Commerce, Texas, following a short illness.

He is survived by his father, C. A. Barnes of Hope, three brothers, Clarence and Elvin of Hope, and Lawrence of Avery, Texas.

Five sisters, Mrs. Sam Betts, Mrs. Foster Young and Miss Marie Barnes, all of Hope; and Mrs. Gus Ingram of Avery, Texas, and Mrs. Harshorn of Commerce, Texas.

Funeral arrangements have not been made, however, the body is expected to arrive in Hope Thursday morning.

Bond Repurchase Plan Held Legal

Arkansas Buys in 2 Millions' Worth for 1-1-3

LITTLE ROCK — (P) — Judge Frank Dodge in Pulaski chancery court Wednesday upheld the validity of the transaction by which the State Bonding Board agreed to purchase more than 2 million dollars in highway, toll-bond and road district bonds at a cost of approximately 1 million $30 thousand dollars.

The ruling came when Judge Dodge sustained a demurrer of the state to a suit filed by Lewis W. Cherry, taxpayer, challenging the transaction.

YOUR HEALTH

By DR. MORRIS FISHBEN

Editor, Journal of the American Medical Association, and of Hygiene, the Health Magazine

Advances Offer Hope to Cancer Sufferers

Although doctors are still in the dark about the cause of cancer, you have less need to dread this condition than ever before. The reason is that the medical profession has made great strides in the control of cancer by application of radium and X-ray.

Part of this advance is due to improvements in the manner in which both radium and X-ray are used.

Long ago it was found that the tissues which make up a cancer are more sensitive to radium and the X-ray than are ordinary tissues. The tissues that make up a cancer are like those of a growing infant after birth. These very much more sensitive to radiation than are the tissues of grown people.

It has also been found that beneficial effects of X-ray and radium on cancer are due not only to changes produced in the cancer itself, but also to the reaction that takes place in the tissues around the cancer.

Radium may now be applied in cancer, not only directly to growths on the surface of the body, but also to growths within the body. This is accomplished by the use of gold and platinum seeds in which the emanation of radium is put directly into the growth.

X-ray apparatus has been improved so that it is now possible to give, in a short time, enormously high dosages of the rays.

During the last 25 years, extensive study has been made of the use of both these methods. Cases have been recorded and have been reported before medical societies, and in that way the science of medicine has been advanced.

With development of the new devices, methods of treatment of cancer in various portions of the body have been modified. Particularly has radium been found to be of value in cancer of the internal generative organs of women. These methods are a great advance over previous methods of treatment.

Cancer of the breast in women used to be treated with irradiation methods only when considered inoperable. Nowadays, irradiation is used sometimes before operation, sometimes in connection with the operation, and in many instances after operation.

By studying cases treated with various methods and by reporting their results in medical meetings and in medical journals, the collective experience of the medical profession is kept before the profession, so that eventually standard methods of almost certain benefit can be worked out.

A Great Biography of Robert E. Lee—Here's Complete Picture of Hero of Confederacy

Douglas Southall Freeman's "Robert E. Lee" tells the story of the great military hero of the Confederacy with a thoroughness that leaves nothing more to be said. It is the biography of Lee; the man is presented to us now, I believe, as fully and completely as he ever can be.

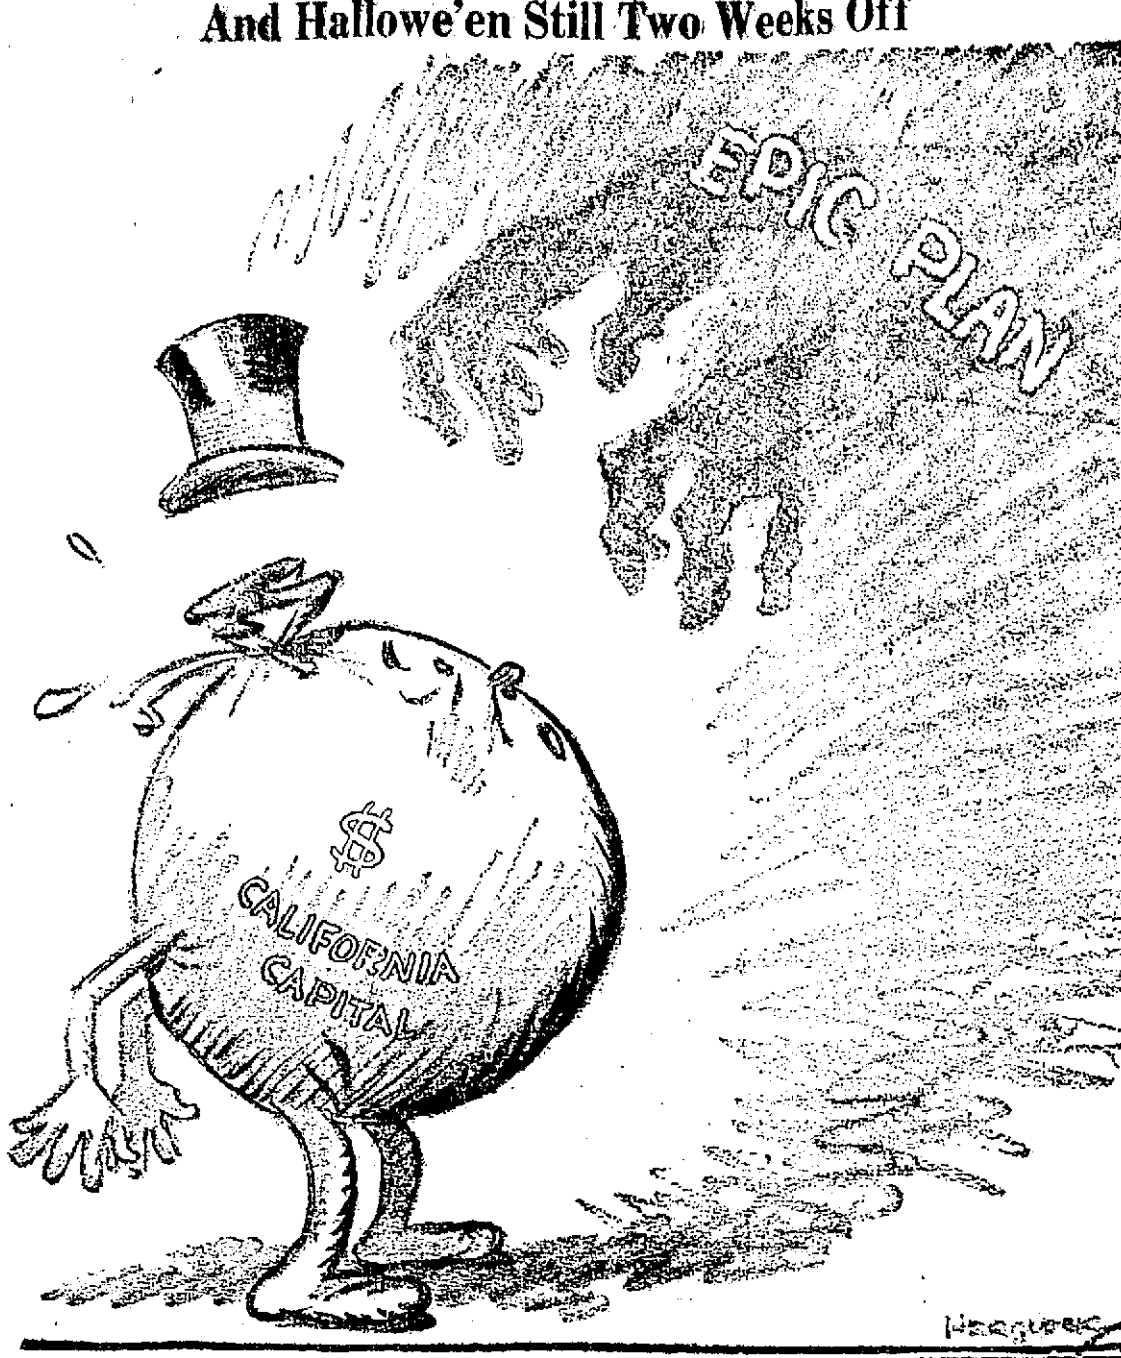

Mr. Freeman has found many of Lee's unpublished letters and has consulted many obscure records. He has given exhaustive and scrupulously accurate attention to every phase of the man's life, from his boyhood to his war career.

The result is a three-dimensional portrait to which nothing can be added.

The work will run to four volumes, of which the first two are now ready. They carry the story to the close of the Chancellorsville campaign, in 1863. Volume One, concerned chiefly with Lee's prewar career, is intensely interesting; but the second, which swings into the epic of the war, is nothing less than absorbing.

Mr. Freeman describes Lee's battles and campaign in a new way. He presents each stage just as Lee saw it at the time. The curtain rises for the reader as high as it rose for Lee, but no higher.

The result is a new understanding

And Hallowe'en Still Two Weeks Off

generally are considered to be in the fashion rather than the cosmetic category, but since modern makers of perfume are sponsoring certain scents for certain furs, we find ourselves doubly interested in both subjects purely from a standpoint of beauty.

A famous couturier tells us that long-haired furs are most flattering to blondes. Then he goes on to say that white fox makes the perfect collar for a fair-skinned girl's evening wrap. He adds that short-haired furs are for sophisticated types and that brown furs are perfect for brunettes.

An equally famous maker of perfumes declares there is real economy in putting perfume directly on your furs. The scent lingers a good deal longer than it does on cloth and seems to stay fresh and pleasant as long as it lasts. He suggests rather sweet odors—gardenia, for example—on fox furs; spicy perfumes on short-haired varieties; and subtle, elusive scents on the luxury furs, including mink, ermine and sable.

Use an atomizer, of course. It will save your perfume. And, more than that, the odor remains longer when each individual hair is sprayed.

The Claw of the Forgotten Murder

BEGIN HERE TODAY

WHEN DAN CLEVER, publisher of The Hope Star, learns that CHARLES MORDEEN, police reporter, has been mysteriously killed, he determines to employ SIDNEY GRIFF, famous criminologist, to solve the murder.

Mordeen had been assigned to learn all he could about FRANK H. CATHAY, wealthy and prominent, who had threatened to sue an investigator. The Blade published a retraction.

Then Mordeen is found dead and a few hours later comes news that Cathay is dead—possibly poisoned.

Sidney Griff undertakes the case. He calls on Cathay's physician and then goes to see H. A. B. FISHER, Cathay's friend and lawyer. Fisher asks Griff who is employing him.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY CHAPTER XII

GRIFF did not answer the lawyer but continued smiling—a smile that told nothing.

"Was it perhaps," Fisher asked, "that is, if it's a fair question, the district attorney of the county or someone connected with the police force who employed you?"

"The question," said Griff, "is fair enough."

There was a moment of silence.

"The answer?" Fisher purred in his most suave voice.

"Oh, the answer," Griff said, "that would be manifestly unfair. It's perfectly fair for you, representing your clients, to ask a question, but you understand we all of us have our professional obligations, counselor."

"I see, I see," Fisher remarked, toying with a pencil on his desk nervously. "That Dr. Cooper should be prosecuted for criminal malfeasance. He disregarded his professional duties and obligations and made an erroneous diagnosis, which was subsequently made public."

"What was the diagnosis he made?" Griff asked.

"I would prefer not to discuss it in view of my connections with the family," Fisher said firmly.

"I see," Griff told him. "There isn't any chance that his diagnosis was right, is there?"

"Not one chance in a million. Not one chance in ten million," Fisher said emphatically. "His diagnosis is a shining example of just how much harm a doctor can do when he shoots off his face. It's an insult to Mrs. Cathay."

"Indeed," said Griff. "How is Mrs. Cathay affected by it?"

"Well," Fisher said, "I'm not going to discuss it, but you can use your imagination. Mr. Griff. Naturally, if a man is poisoned, one naturally suspects the young widow who will be beneficiary under the estate, to the tune of several million dollars. . . . That is, you understand, I'm simply commenting now upon the popular trend of thought, the idle street car gossip, the widespread comments of sewing circles."

"And Dr. Cooper has now abandoned that diagnosis?" Griff asked.

"Oh, certainly. In fact, he never made any such diagnosis. He simply said that the symptoms were

Blue Eagle May Be Relinquished

End of "Crack Down" Era of Recovery Administration Is Near

WASHINGTON — (P) — More self-control by business in policing and enforcing NRA codes was planned Monday by President Roosevelt and his Recovery Board in a sudden move to end Blue Eagle days of "crack-down" fame.

From the White House after a series of conferences came definite indications that Mr. Roosevelt wants industry to take the leadership in guaranteeing success of the code structure by itself stamping out "chiselers" within the ranks.

Under the new NRA there would be continued and better co-ordinated supervision of the whole compliance problem. It would be directed, however, in a way that would shift a greater burden than ever before on code authorities elected by industries themselves.

Speculation arose here that Robert M. Hutchins, youthful president of the University of Chicago, would be named to revamp the enforcement system. Hutchins conferred with the president Monday.

Projected revision of the code enforcement system prompted speculation also over the part the Blue Eagle will play in the future. Administrative withdrawal of this emblem, which in some cases has forced the offending business to close down, is regarded by some businessmen as tantamount to "lynch law."

Many industrialists have, after a Blue Eagle withdrawal, the Justice Department has declined to prosecute because of "lack of evidence." This happened in the case of the Harriman (Tenn.) Hosiery Mills and the Houde Engineering Company of Buffalo.

VALUES

Few people realize the true value of their newspaper. To them it has become such a commonplace item in their daily routine that they give no thought to the actual cost of producing their paper, or to the actual value they receive by its daily appearance in their homes.

But, if they could visualize the vast amount of capital that is invested in news services, special features, distant correspondents, typesetting and printing equipment, and the thousand and one other items that go to make a daily paper interesting, timely and accurate, they would be amazed at their ability to purchase their paper for a few cents.

And, this costly and valuable service is made possible by those merchants and manufacturers who consistently advertise in your paper's columns. To them is justly due your patronage, for they are making it possible for you to receive a complete and comprehensive digest of local and world wide events each day.

Mr. Lloveras has recently returned from New York on a special mission for the government of Honduras, and is spending a few days in Hot Springs.

Preview Friday of New Film 'Chained'

Joan Crawford, Clark Gable in One Performance Only, 11 p. m.

In "Chained," Joan Crawford and Clark Gable co-starred in a story written especially for them by Edgar Selwyn, noted writer.

They are cast in the kind of roles which each has made famous—Joan as a vivid young lady of Manhattan, and Clark as a young American rancher in Buenos Aires.

With Otto Kruger as the "other man," a rich, gentlemanly, middle-aged New Yorker, also in love with Joan, the story takes on dramatic power.

"Chained" comes to the Sanger at 11 Friday night for a preview showing only.

A story of the heart-break, pathos and the human drama that goes on behind the curtains of the vaudeville stage, and in the private lives of vaudeville folk, Paramount's "You Belong to Me," is the Thursday and Friday attraction.

Heading the cast of "You Belong to Me" are Lee Tracy, Helen Mack, Helen Morgan and the latest juvenile star, David Holt, aged six, who makes his debut in this picture. Lynne Overman and Arthur Pierson appear in the supporting cast.

insanity entered by defense lawyers at the time he was brought to trial in criminal court on a robbery charge in the spring of 1929, the records state, a charge of impersonating an officer was annulled.

He was admitted first to the hospital June 10, 1929, returned to the court June 24, re-admitted June 27 and later transferred to the Western State hospital at Bolivar. He was released from the latter institution in the summer of 1930.

Accused of $6,000 Theft
At the time Robinson pleaded insanity he was charged with the theft of approximately $6,000 of jewelry and other valuables from two homes, which he was alleged to have entered by displaying a badge and posing as a deputy sheriff. He had two fake search warrants. The Institutions Department records quote Robinson as saying he learned how to make out warrants at law school.

The Central hospital records state that Robinson had "superman" feelings, had a good memory and made a good showing on all mental tests.

He dropped from his college fraternity, it was set out, "because he thought the boys were not square with him—wouldn't pay their debts and they were dumbbells." He quit his Sunday school on account of his pastor's records continued.

"Although formerly a regular church goer, the records said that he had 'lost interest and quit going, and says if he should die suddenly he believed he would go to hell.'"

Robinson has been married twice. The "supposed cause of insanity" was given in the hospital records as "shock and misery" in connection with his first marriage, which was dissolved by divorce, the separation action having been brought by Robinson.

Dizzy Dean Voted "Most Valuable"

Great Cardinal Pitcher Gets National League's Highest Honor

CHICAGO — (AP) — Jerome Herman Dean, (Dizzy), making $35,000 for himself this year, was named Tuesday night as the most valuable player in the National League for 1934.

Pitching ace of the world's champions, St. Louis Cardinals, Dean came within two points of a perfect score in the selection made by a Committee of Eight representing the Baseball Writers Association of America. In the official balloting first place counted 10 points, and Dean scored 78 points. Six members of the committee voted him the most valuable player and the other two ranked him second.

So pitcher succeeds pitcher in the most valuable player award. The honor was awarded to Carl Hubbell of the New York Giants last year. Hubbell this year finished in a three-way tie for ninth place, along with Paul Dean, Dizzy's brother, and Hal Schumacher, another Giant.

The victory of the valiant Dizzy was clearcut and decisive. He had a margin of 28 points over Paul Waner of the Pittsburgh Pirates, who finished second, and of 36 points over Joe Moore of the New York Giants, in third place. Travis Jackson, Giants' inspiring infielder, landed in fourth place, with Melvin Ott, also of the Giants, fifth.

Here are some of the achievements of the rollicking young man from Hot Springs, Okla., that made him a stand-out.

Won 30 games and lost seven for the Cardinals, for the best National League pitching since 1915, when Grover Cleveland Alexander, the wheelhorse of the Phillies, also was victorious in 30 encounters.

Led the National League for the third consecutive year in strikeouts, whiffing 198 batsmen, according to unofficial figures.

Was within a couple of innings of working more than any other pitcher in the league, pitching 311 innings to 313 for Hubbell and 314 for Van Lingle Mungo, the Brooklyn speedball artist. Participated in 51 of the Cardinal games, a third of their contests, either as a pitcher, pinch hitter, or base runner. Batted 246, making two home runs.

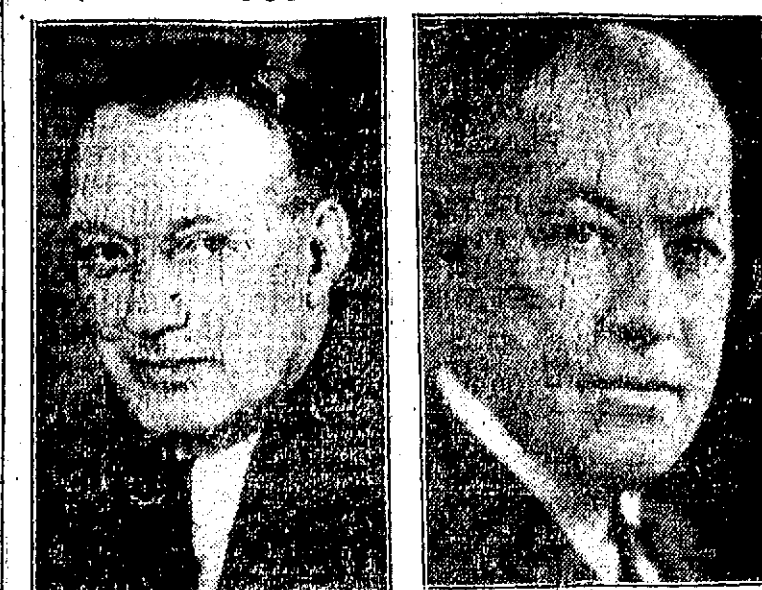

In the amazing pennant drive of the Cardinals, and the world series following, Dean pitched nine games in 19 days.

In the world series Dean won the first and last of the seven-game series, and lost one.

During the season he defeated the pennant-contending Giants six times.

newspapers than any other man. His remarkable work during the past season with Detroit has brought honor to himself and to his state and now his folk at home have planned an all day party to pay him homage. Rowe is a recent graduate of the El Dorado High School.

To Address Arkansas Oil Men

The principal speaker at the annual convention of the Oil Dealers Association in Little Rock, Thursday, October 18, will be General Baird H. Markham, director of the American Petroleum Industries Committee of Washington and New York. General Markham's subject will be "A Square Deal."

General Markham is almost a local man since his permanent home is in Oklahoma, where he was adjutant-general for many years, resigning to join the Marland Oil company as Treasurer. When the Marland Oil company he went with the Continental people as comptroller, which position he held until two years ago when he became director of the American Petroleum Industries Committee, the public relations department of the industry. General Markham will speak at 10:30 a. m.

Colonel T. H. Barton, president of the Lion Oil Refining company of El Dorado, is well known to the oil fraternity throughout the state and mid-continent area. He was one of the pioneer producers of the El Dorado field; and, you might say, grew up with the industry in this state, since his companies are now engaged in production, refining and marketing.

Colonel Barton will address the convention on "The Trend of the Oil Industry in Arkansas" at 2:25 p. m.

The addresses of General Markham, Colonel Barton and other speakers will be broadcast over Radio Station KARK. It is expected that the largest gathering of oil dealers in the history of the state will attend the business and social meetings of the convention.

Arkansas to Meet L. S. U. Saturday

Shreveport Classic Will Establish Southwest-ern Comparison

FAYETTEVILLE, Ark. — With three successive victories, two of them over Southwest conference foes, to their credit, the University of Arkansas Razorbacks will invade Shreveport Saturday to battle the Louisiana State Tigers, who to date have been tied by two Southwest elevens, Rice and Southern Methodist.

Realizing that Arkansas' showing against L. S. U. will enable critics to make comparisons between the Razorbacks and two of their strongest conference rivals, Coach Fred Thomsen is planning to throw his strongest lineup against the Bengals. Plays that have been kept under cover thus far will be used against L. S. U. and to quote the Arkansas coach, "We'll shoot the works."

The Arkansas players came out of the gruelling game with Baylor, played

A.O.U.W. Observes 66th Anniversary

Organization Founded October 27, 1868, at Meadville, Pa.

Special programs are being prepared by the various A. O. U. W. of Kansas lodges, throughout Arkansas for the observance of the 66th anniversary of the founding of the Ancient Order of United Workmen, which occurred at Meadville, Pa.

Thirteen men, including John Jordan Uphurch, met in Meadville, Pa., October 27, 1868, and founded the Ancient Order of United Workmen, which was the first fraternal benefit society in America. From this small beginning there are today in the United States and Canada approximately 13 grand A. O. U. W. jurisdictions with a membership numbering millions, and assets amounting into the billions.

The Kansas jurisdiction, which includes Kansas, Arkansas, Arizona, New Mexico, and Colorado, is one of the oldest and largest, and was chartered under the Kansas laws as a grand jurisdiction 57 years ago.

Plan Auto Racing at Louisiana Fair

Special Thrillers Arranged at Shreveport October 21 and 28

SHREVEPORT, La. — Hair-raising thrills can safely be expected by visitors to the Louisiana State Fair during the two Sunday afternoons of the State Fair program, when automobile racing will be the chief sport. These contests will be staged October 21 and 28.

According to Secretary-Manager W. R. Hirsch, some of the country's most famous "speed kings" have indicated their intention of taking part in the State fair contests. "We have offered very attractive purses and trophies," he said, "and we are confident that a number of the fastest drivers in the United States will whirl their racing machines around the half-mile dirt track in search of new speed records. In fact, judging by the injuries we are receiving there will be an aggregation of speedsters and the spectators will be thrilled beyond measure as the drivers defy danger in their mad pace."

Aromatic Turkish tobacco

On the sunny slopes of Smyrna . . in the fertile fields of Macedonia . . from the shores of the Black Sea . . that's where the best kinds grow . . the kinds used in making Chesterfields.

THERE are about as many kinds of Turkish tobacco as there are kinds of apples—but they all have a spicy aroma and flavor which seems to "season" a cigarette better than any other kind that grows.

The right Turkish is costly—but it adds something to Chesterfield's milder better taste.

When you go on your next cruise, stop at Smyrna and visit our tobacco factory. We think you will find it interesting.
